Internet Articles

The sales pitch in the course of the first contact has shown itself to be a deciding factor in the ultimate decision to buy and also in deciding on the establishment of a business relationship. More and more this strategically important contact takes place through the Internet, from a visit to the website of the company, through recommendations in blogs and forums and via the bigger search engines such as Google, Yahoo and MSN.

In order that the visitor to your site be persuaded from the beginning and so that the initial contact might lead to the desired success, not only the findability of your website (-> search engine optimization), but also the design and flawless programming of the content of your site - and thus the employed Internet Articles - are of the greatest importance.

The Internet article offer from the PR Agency Berlin consists of:

- Internet articles for websites and online media of every kind
- Newsletter texts
- Website news
- Internet texts for forums and blogs
- Proofreading of already existing Internet texts

Alongside the sales pitch these Internet articles, including their layout and the ratio of text to keywords (so called keyword density) play a key role in the positioning of websites in the search engines (-> search engine optimization).
