 * Online PR Internet Portals & Media

We contact all editors personally and generate interest through follow-ups. For us, successful public relations means establishing personal contact with the media and the individual editors.

We are able to provide current press releases on a budget, competently and reliable, as well as comprehensive reports.

We skillfully combine press work in Berlin with a successful claim, written by our copywriters here in Berlin - a neat wording is always worth a headline. We like to work, even on a very small budget - our free guide on how to create a professional press release, can be found here. Of course we happily accept your text for distribution and look forward to reading about you.
